EXECUTIVE MANSION,
JACKSON, March 29, 1876.

MESSRS. DEARANT AND PRYOR—Gents: In reply to your suggestion, I beg to say that in consequence of the election of last November I found myself con fronted with a hostile legislature, and embarrassed and baffled in my endeavors to carry out my plans for the welfare of my State and my party. I re solved, therefore, to resign my office as governor of the State of Mississippi; but, meanwhile, articles of [illegible] were instituted against me, and of course I could not, and would not, [illegible] from my position under the imputation of any charge [illegible] my honor and integrity. For the reason indicated I still desire to escape burdens which are compensated by no public use fulness. If the articles of impeachment presented against me were [illegible], I should feel at liberty to carry out my desire and purpose of resignation. I am very truly yours, ADELBERT AMES.

At 10 o'clock the impeachment court assembled, and Mr. [illegible] presented the resolution and asked that the impeachment articles against Gov. Ames be dismissed, which was done.

Mr. Dennis, of Governor Ames' counsel, then read the following: "Executive Office, Jackson, March 29. To the people of the State of Mississippi: I hereby formally resign my office of Governor of the State of Mississippi. ADELBERT AMES."

[illegible] Overflow of the Mississippi Inevitable.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 28.—There is a settled conviction in the minds of those interested in the river bottom that a disastrous overflow is inevitable. The water this evening is within two inches of the danger line and scant two feet below extreme high water mark. The river has risen five inches to day and is now 33 feet 10 inches. There have been rain and snow this morning. It is clearing now with a stiff gale all day from the north.

The rise in the river is very slow, but has almost reached the danger line and reports from above show that the present flood will exceed that of Feb ruary or of last August, and as all tributaries below are at flood tide there is much uneasiness be low among the planters.

THE BELKNAP INVESTIGATION.

Testimony of Alex. T. Gray.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The committee on ex penditures of the war department to-day examined Alex. T. Gray, clerk in the Attorney General's office. He testified that [illegible] Daniels being desirous of obtaining a sutlership at Fort Stanton, [illegible] promised witness $1,000 if he would get it for him. Gray went to Senator Carpenter and [illegible] recommended Dan iels appointment, which was procured. Daniels never paid him the $1,000.

First Lieut. Rob't G. Carter,

Fourth Cavalry testified that Gen. Reynolds sent to Gen. McKenzie at Fort [illegible] 7,000 bushels of corn bought from Adams & Wicks, contractors at San Antonio. [illegible] Gen. McKenzie, who was com mander at the post, refused to receive it on the ground that it was not fit for issue and too high a price. Gen. Reynolds ordered him again to take it when McKenzie again refused and had an inspec tion of the grain. It was found weevil eaten and musty and therefore unfit for issue. After Mc Kenzie's second protest Reynolds made a perem tory order and the former was obliged to take the grain. McKenzie represented that Adams & Wicks were bad men, that they were monopolizing the contracts of the department, and that other contractors offered to furnish good corn for [illegible] cents a bushel less. The result was that Reynolds preferred charges to Gen. Halleck against McKenzie for willful and obstinate diso bedience of orders but he never was tried. Wit ness said the damaged corn laid around the post a long time and was finally wasted because the horses would not eat it.

J. E. Barrow

Testified he was appointed post trader at Fort Union, New Mexico, in 1868 through the influence of W. D. W. Barnard, brother in law of Gen. [illegible] Dent. After trying other parties he went to Bar nard and promised to give him one third of the profits of the post. Barnard wrote a long letter to Gen. Grant who was then general of the army, tell ing him of the proposition made and detailing the conversation had between witness and Barnard. Witness saw the letter. He inclosed an appli cation for appointment and got it indi rect from General Grant through General Smith. Barnard after enclosing the witness' application to Gen. Grant wrote to Mrs. Grant telling her of the witness' proposition and asking her influence. Witness says he read the letter and that Barnard familiarly addressed her Julia. Barnard is now bank examiner at St. Louis.

I. D. Wooley,

Post trader at Fort D. A. Russell, Wy., testified that he paid ex-Senator Thayer of Nebraska $1,500 to go to Washington three or four times when attempts were made to remove the witness. He contributed $400 to the Republican campaign fund during the last Presidential campaign.

Edward Welsh,

Post trader at Fort McPherson, testified that R. F. Bowers, wholesale grocer at Keokuk, Iowa, and brother in law of Gen. Belknap, is his partner. He did not believe Bowers ever wrote to the Secretary of War about the place. He asked him to do so but he refused. Witness subscribed $300 for the last Presidential campaign fund.

Meeting of the House Committee on Judiciary.

The full House committee on judiciary held a meeting to-day to receive the report of the sub committee who had heard the testimony of Mr. and Mrs. Marsh and others in the Belknap case. The committee passed upon articles of impeach ment and propose to present them in the House on Thursday together with the evidence in their sup port. It is the general view of the committee that this is sufficiently strong to convict him of corrup tion in office.

General George A. Custer

Appeared before the committee on expenditures of the War Department to-day and testified that Robert T. Sipe, post trader at Fort Abraham Lin coln, told him his profits were $15,000 annually, one third of which was paid to General Hedrick of Iowa, and one third to General Rice at Washing ton. He did not know but he understood that a portion of it went to the Secretary of War. Ray mond, the Indian Agent at Fort Berthold said he paid Orville Grant $1,000 for getting him the place. Custer testified that the proclamation of the Presi dent extending the great Sioux military reservation enhanced the value of the trading posts on the North Missouri river because it rendered them a more complete monopoly. Witness said that Thumb, trader at Fort Peck, was about to be com pelled to leave, when he obtained some affidavits showing that Orville Grant and Sayton Bros. were mixed up with Indian frauds. Gen. Custer said one object of Gen. Belknap's visit to the frontier was to perfect arrangements whereby whisky could be brought across the border at reduced rates, and increased values given to post traderships. Custer related various instances in which grain had been stolen from the government by post traders taking it into their stores.

Injurious Report Denied.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The Secretary of the Navy denies the published statement that he trans mitted money to the house of Jay Cooke, McCul loch & Co. Examination of General Schenck.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—General Schenck ap peared before the committee of Foreign Affairs to-day. Alluding to the writ served on him just previous to leaving London he produced a note from the law firm stating they had served it under the impression that he had resigned, apologizing for the mistake and asking him to con sider the proceedings abandoned. In answer to a remark that it had been said he left England without taking leave of the Queen, Schenck ex plained he came home on leave of absence but not knowing his status he did not know whether he would return to London. The usual note was sent to Lord Derby stating that as he was leaving, and doubly he was not able to pay his personal respects and that he had left the legation in charge of Col. Hoffman. It was usual that the resignation of a minister took effect on the appointment of his suc cessor and as no successor had been appointed he supposed he was still minister but on leave of ab sence. He left London for Washington for the sole purpose of appearing before the committee and ex plaining the transaction between Schenck and Park in shares and notes. Schenck said Park in sisted on allowing him a balance of over £4,000 as interest to which he was entitled on the purchase and sale of stock. Schenck refused to receive all of such credit and insisted on paying or settling in some way as best he could out of his means the balance of the note. This was done by the payment of $17,000 in cash and by turning over to Park certificates of paid up stocks in the Vermillion Coal Company of Illinois, in the Na tional [illegible] Company of Washington and in other companies to the amount of $12,000 and a promissory note of M. The ministry will continue to act with the same prudence as the late govern ment in regard to its foreign policy and will carry on the work of the late government relative to the army and navy. Failure of Brokers.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 29.—McKee & Co., dealers in puts and calls, remain closed to-day but representatives of the press are invited to come in at the back door and examine the books of the company and make statements accordingly. The firm claim that the failure is both total and fair, and that they kept set tling contracts until the last dollar was paid out. They deny the story that they continued selling calls until a few moments before clos ing doors though a few small sales were made early in the morning before the rise in Chollar which swamped them, took place. As to the future prospects of the firm no statement is offered but the outlook is apparently very du bious for resumption.

Anti-Chinese Movement.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28.—The citizens' committee of twelve, to take action in the anti-Chinese movement, held a meeting this evening. A telegram was received from Gov. Irwin stating that the rush of business at Sac ramento would prevent his presiding at the mass meeting called for next Saturday even ing, but that he would be present Wednesday, next week. A resolution therefore was adopted postponing the mass meeting until Wednesday evening, April 5th. A resolution was offered premising that fears had been en tertained in some quarters that the present movement was designed to attack the rights and privileges of Chinese now residents here, and stating that to allay such fears it should be understood that these Chinese now resi dent here, would be protected as before, and all treaty obligations observed, and that the object of the movement was simply to prevent further immigration by bringing the public influence to bear so as to procure an abroga tion or abridgement of the Burlingame treaty. After some discussion on the wording of the resolution, it was referred for revision to the committee on resolutions and the meeting ad journed until Friday evening.

Complaint of the Olympians.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 29.—In regard to the complaint of the people of Olympia, W. T., that the Pacific Mail Steamship Co. have neg lected to fulfill their promise to make that point the terminus of their northern coast line on condition that a wharf be built for their accommodation, the Pacific Mail agen cy here states that it was not promised to run to Olympia until the 10th of April, but that company has anticipated this date by sending the Dakota on the 25th inst. to that city. Beginning with the 10th proximo the Dakota and City of Panama will run to Victoria and Olympia, each steamer at intervals of 20 days.

Discovery of Rich Gold Mines.

VISALIA, March 29.—Much excitement pre vails here over the discovery of rich gold bear ing quartz 20 miles east of Visalia. Six dol lars have been taken from ten pounds of rock brought in among the samples of ore. The mines are situated among the foothills near Kaweah river, where rich float rock has been found for years past, but no one suc ceeded in finding the ledge until a few days since.

The Sailing of the Australian Steamer Delayed.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 29.—The sailing of the City of San Francisco for Australia is delayed by a slight accident to her machinery. She will probably get off to-morrow.

Investigation of the California Surveyor General's Office.

SACRAMENTO, March 28.—In the report of the investigation of the surveyor general's office the committee on the land monopoly find a balance unaccounted for of $10,071. The accounts were very loosely kept. Copies of the records of the office have been fur nished to private land operators by the clerks, a nefarious practice of stealing lieu land [illegible] been indulged in from time to time in the surveyor general's office during the last two administrations and from the testimony of experts it appears that such practice could not be indulged in to any considerable ex tent without the knowledge or connivance of some one in the surveyor general's office. The committee have no doubt that large quantities of public lands have been obtained by fraud of various descriptions but are of opinion that it would be fruitless to prosecute the inquiry farther, [illegible] to bring to light the means adopted by speculators to accomplish their purposes in using the public lands of the State as capital stock for their specula tions. The report concludes by recommend ing certain changes in the manner of keeping the records and accounts in the surveyor general's office.

THE NEW DEAL.

McMINNVILLE, March 27, 1876.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In your paper of March 21st there appeared a communication from Gen. E. L. Applegate, in which he advocates the nomination by the next Republican State Convention of a candi date for United States Senator instead of al lowing the choice of the party to be named by the Republican members of the legislature when the election of Senator comes before that body.

This subject has been discussed for some time past under the name of the "New Deal," and I, although not so old nor so well experi enced politically as the author of the letter re ferred to, desire to comment briefly on this subject and in opposition to the ideas of those who call for this "new deal" in the political game.

It is urged that, by placing the nomination of Senator in the power of the State conven tion, the evils of legislative caucuses would be effectually eradicated; that bribery and other corruption would find no place in the matter and that the whole affair would be conducted in the fairest manner and in full accordance with the wishes of the people.

I am well aware that trickery and corrup tion often rule largely in the election of Sen ators, as well as in the conduct of other elec tions. If therefore, this could be surely and effectually stopped by the method now sought for every honest man would say amen, and would hail such a measure with delight. However, earnest as the champions of this movement may be I am constrained to think that they can but fail of the accomplishment of their ultimate purpose—that of purifying more effectually the Senatorial election.

I believe this to be a move in the right di rection so far as it tends to restrain corruption and to show bribers that their occupation is gone; but I think the actual result of the change, if carried into effect as proposed, would be to open the door wider for an ingress of the evils so long attendant upon caucuses, and do much to remove the restraint the law has placed on those who would attempt to buy the vote of a legislator. Instead of the fight being carried on in the legislative halls where the commission of some forms of ras cality, especially of bribery, is made an of fense indictable under the laws, it would be removed into the convention—a huge caucus—where, bribe he ever so freely, Mr. Corrup tionist can laugh to scorn the officers of the law who, under other circumstances, would call him to account for his evil deeds. In short, the only thing accomplished would be a change of scene.

Suppose the convention should nominate a candidate for senator, the same as it will choose candidates for other offices. In that case the party would have the weight of an additional candidate to carry, and its influ ence would be strongly felt even in county politics, where more than in other places it would work against Republican interests and prospects. The hands of Republicans elected to the legislature would be firmly bound by this proceeding and party discipline—a good thing in proper bounds—would, by a power stronger and more liable to corruption, than caucus ever was, compel them to vote for the candidate named by the convention. If the senator was to be chosen by a direct vote of the people it would be proper to nominate a candidate for that office in a popular conven tion, but as it is the province of legislators alone to elect the senator, let them, and not some convention for them, determine for whom they will vote and it matters not whether they arrive at that determination by means of a caucus or whether they vote as the spirit moves them.

The true and only solution of this difficulty is to elect to the legislature men, above re proach, who cannot be approached in a man ner inconsistent with true honesty and noble purposes—men who are capable of thinking and acting for themselves, and who do not confide their political being into the care of some dishonest party leader. Such men could use the caucus in its true sphere—that of pre liminary deliberation upon the best course to pursue—and they could be trusted by the peo ple. When voters will send to the legislature men discreet and honest withal, bribery will be made odious and the election of United States Senator, as well as all other business, will be conducted in a manner gratifying to every true man in the State.

To this end, let all the people turn out and take the part of well informed men in public conventions, and leave off staying at home to growl if party leaders don't move aright. Give those leaders to understand that the ship of state must be steered by the chart of intelligent honesty, and all will be well. Very respect fully yours,

GEO. H. BURNETT.

INFORMATION WANTED.

PORTLAND, March 27, 1876.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Herewith I send you copy of letter received from Frederick Watts, Esq., commissioner of agriculture, Washington, D. C., making cer tain inquiries regarding sheep farming in Ore gon. Inasmuch as my own experience has been confined to a comparatively small flock of pure bred Cotswolds and Leicesters, if you would kindly publish the commissioner's letter asking those who have made sheep farming a specialty for years, both in the Willamette valley and Eastern Oregon, to carefully answer the inquiries made, and address the same to me at an early day, it would enable me in my reply to give a better general idea of sheep farming in Oregon. Respectfully, yours,

S. G. REED.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE,
WASHINGTON, Nov. 4, 1875.

SIR: Desiring to obtain definite facts as to sheep farming in Oregon you will oblige me by kindly giving such facts as to the breed, price of mixed, average cost of keeping, weight and fleece, average number of lambs per hun dred ewes (or at that rate), number of acres of local pasturage required per hundred sheep, present price of wool of your breed and any other facts concerning your valuable flocks.

Respectfully,
(Signed) FREDERICK WATTS,
Commissioner.

THE SARDINE TRADE.—Persons engaged in the sardine trade in France are finding out that fraud is not always profitable in the long run. This export trade, says Consul Clipper ton in his commercial report on Nantes for the past year, was found to have fallen off to such a great extent that information on the subject was sought by the minister of com merce from the French consul abroad. The United States being the principal buyer of this article were applied to in the first instance and the unpleasant truth was revealed in a dispatch from the French consul general at New York in February. It seems that the hermetically closed boxes contain, as it was tacitly believed, sardines, could no longer be depended on for the nature of their contents. Spurious fish such as sprats, mackerel and even more common species were introduced while the oil was of very in ferior quality.

It was discovered that at least 10 per cent of the importation was spurious and as a natural consequence the general demand for sardines fell off and a large stock was left on hand. The ordinary yearly production of sardines is be tween 400,000 and 500,000 cases, each case con taining 200 boxes, of which it is estimated that France consumes 75,000 cases, or on an average, one box for every five inhabitants. With a view to protect the buyers in future from being cheated by fraudulent contractors, [illegible] has lately been formed [illegible] with as far as it is possible that the rules and regu lations agreed to by the trade are complied with, and having full powers to stamp a mark or certificate guaranteeing that the merchan dise is of a sound and marketable quality, the quality to be determined each season and to be considered as accepted.—Pall Mall Gazette.

THE TERRITORIES

Mr. John Jones, a miner at Schome, soon after entering the mine on Wednesday morn ing last week, had a lot of coal fall on him, from which he sustained a complete fracture of the thigh bone five inches above the knee, crushing his body somewhat seriously in the breast and side.

The carpenter and blacksmith at Tulalip Indian agency, having tendered their resigna tion, and the same being accepted, the proper authorities immediately appointed two of the late pupils of Tulalip Indian school who are at present discharging the duties of carpenter and blacksmith respectively to the satisfaction of both Indians and Indian Department.

The Talbot Company of Seattle are already 150 feet into their new incline which distance will be extended to 700 feet. The vein now being worked is 11 feet thick, 9 feet of which is pure coal, and coal of a quality better than any yet taken from the mine. The new engine and hoisting machinery are at work and by the 1st of July the yield will, it is thought, be made to average 900 tons a week.

A man in the Seattle saw mill last Monday morning very nearly cut off the five toes of his right foot. He was shaping a wooden wedge with a broadaxe, his foot placed upon the stick to hold it, when the stick moved, and the sharp edge of the tool came down upon the top of his boot. When his boot and stocking were removed, the toes dropped over and hung by the skin and a bit of the flesh next the sole. The almost separated toes were fastened again to the foot by needle and thread.

Some time since, the Indians on the Sko komish reservation, on Hood's canal, got angry and sent a petition to Washington against the agent, Mr. Edwin Eells, who has been executive on that reservation for years past. In anticipation of probable difficulty with the Indians there, the Department at Washington telegraphed to Gen. Howard, of Portland, to dispatch his aid, Maj. W. W. Boyle, to the scene immediately. Major Boyle arrived at Olympia a few days since, from Portland, rode over to the canal on horse back, in company with a guide. On Tuesday the Major returned, through a heavy rain storm. He reports everything quiet at the reservation with no present indications of serious trouble.

Acting Governor Strave of Washington Ter ritory, made the following appointments last week: Geo. A. Barnes, Esq., of Thurston county, to be a regent to the Territorial uni versity; Chas. H. Whitney, Esq., of Clarke county, to be trustee of the hospital for the insane in Washington Territory, vice Dr. T. T. Minor resigned—term of office, three years after August 16, 1876; Richard M. Bruno, residing at 202 Broadway, New York city, to be commissioner of deeds for the State of New York. Also, the following named persons to be notaries public: M. N. Warren, of Lewis county; C. H. Bostford and Irving Ballard, of Pierce county; W. Byron Daniels and John Crallebaugh, of Clarke county; F. A. Bart lett, of Clallam county.

OREGON.

A son of John Fagan, living near Tangent, had his hand badly shattered by an acci dental shot on last Tuesday.

The Eastport Coal Mining Company of Coos county have let a contract for the building of a vessel for the trade. This is to be larger than the craft now employed, and is to be built on Puget Sound.

Mr. Kenneth McIntosh, while out hunting last Saturday near the mouth of Coos river, was passing through some under-growth, when his rifle was discharged by accident, the bullet passing through the third finger of his left hand.

Information is desired concerning the whereabouts of N. D. Vaughn, by an anxious mother. He left Buena Vista, Oregon, about two years ago for California, and was in San Francisco when last heard from. Address Mrs. S. L. Fickle, Buena Vista, Oregon.

The Union county Sentinel (Dem.) says: "A large number of Democratic citizens of Wasco county recently called upon Judge McArthur and requested him to accept the judgeship. They, and also the Democrats of Grant county, express the opinion that unless Judge McArthur is on the ticket that it will be impossible to elect Democrats to the legisla ture."

The warm rains of Sunday and Monday be fore last raised the streams of Grand Ronde valley to within a few inches of last year's high water mark. Grand Ronde river left its banks on Monday night and overflowed the road between La Grande and the Cove. Cath erine creek was also out of its bank and about two feet deep at the bridge on the La Grande road, on Wednesday.

Mrs. Mercy Warwick, an old lady aged 84 years, was found dead in her bed last Friday morning, the 24th inst., at the residence of one of her grandchildren, with whom she was living, near Sandy Ridge, about ten miles from Albany. She had been complaining several days previous of erysipelas in her arms, but was about the house as usual. About daylight on the morning of her death she got up and went to the door and quieted the watch dog, which was barking, after which she returned to bed and was found a few minutes later in the cold embrace of death.

Work on the Virtue mine near Baker City is being pushed ahead rapidly, and they have struck the richest rock that has ever been found in the ledge. The Superintendent, Matt Hyde, is working everything to the best ad vantage. He let a contract some time ago at $18 per foot to parties to sink a main shaft 100 feet, which has just been completed and on last Tuesday another contract was to be let to sink the shaft one hundred feet deeper. This shaft will strike the ledge some 400 feet below the surface of the earth, from which the ore will be hoisted and sent to the mill in a "shoote," thus doing away with the old tun nel and hand cars. Baker City owes much of its prosperity to the Virtue mine.

AN ADVERSE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON FOR EIGN RELATIONS ON MR. DANA'S NOMINATION TO BE MADE.

[Special Dispatch to the N. Y. Times.]

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The committee on foreign relations, consisting of Senators Cam eron, Morton, Hamlin, Howe, Frelinghuysen, Conkling, McCreery, Bogy and Eaton, have instructed their chairman to report against the confirmation of Mr. R. H. Dana to be minis ter to Great Britain, and to ask the President to withdraw the nomination. This action is brought about by the opposition of ex-Gov. William Beach Lawrence, and is the result of the old copyright quarrel between these two publicists. Gov. Lawrence has appeared in person and through others, opposing Dana's confirmation, and two or three days ago Gen. Butler appeared on the scene and has been working diligently to pledge against Dana a sufficient number of Republican Senators to defeat the confirmation if all the Democratic Senators vote against it. Mr. Dana has tele graphed Senators Boutwell and Dawes asking for a hearing before the committee. In a case of this character and importance it would be exceedingly unfortunate if the proceedings by which the name of such a man as R. H. Dana is rejected are covered up under the secrecy of an executive session.

Concerning the charge of literary piracy on the part of Mr. Richard H. Dana, Jr., in connection with his edition of Wheaton's Elements of International Law, the Boston Transcript says:

The history of the case is well known hereabouts. A suit is now pending in the United States court, having been referred several years ago to Hon. Henry W. Paine as auditor in chancery, to determine how far Mr. Dana is liable, if at all, for literary piracy. It was formally agreed between Mrs. Wheaton and Mr. Lawrence in consideration of some negotiations by which Brockhaus of Leipsic was to pay the former 6,000 francs, that she was to make no use of Mr. Lawrence's notes in a new edition [of Wheaton's Elements] without his written consent and Mrs. Whea ton will give to Mr. Lawrence the right to make any use he wishes of his own notes." This agree ment was ratified by the payment of the draft. In 1863 the seventh edition of the Elements ap peared with Mr. Lawrence's notes and anno tations, entitled Lawrence's Wheaton, Second Annotated Edition. The title of the book was thus changed without the consent of, and to the indignation of Mr. Wheaton's representa tives, who owned the copyright. Further more, the editor had embodied, as the owners allege, his own peculiar views of political economy which were adverse to the then pre vailing sentiments of patriotic Americans at home and abroad. It was a time when the national government was hard pressed by the rebels in the field at home and by secret emis saries at foreign courts. Questions of interna tional law were constantly arising; our home and foreign policy was passing through its most trying ordeal, and the authorities at Washington refused to sanction, by purchas ing the usual supply for the foreign offices, a work whose editor was a pronounced Calhoun ist and whose views to a considerable extent permeated the notes to this standard volume on international law. In this dilemma the representatives of Mr. Wheaton sought a new editor, who, after some solicitation, was found in Mr. Dana. In 1864 his work began, labori ous progress was made for two years, and late in 1866 the eighth edition appeared, with his name as editor. The edition was favorably received at home and abroad, and has since occupied a high standard position, having been used by both parties at Geneva. The compactness of the notes and citations has rendered it far more desirable than the bulky references and quotations of Mr. Lawrence. In many cases authors are cited who are not named in Mr. Lawrence's notes, but who were easily accessible at the time, and in the evi dence before the Master Mr. Dana has shown a vast amount of labor and research, for all of which he received only about what would be the fee for a single argument in court. Mr. Dana had no knowledge of any agreement be tween Mr. Lawrence and Mr. Wheaton's repre sentatives, except the one above quoted, and the whole claim of Mr. Lawrence rests on the question whether Mr. Dana had the right to cite the same authorities on a given topic that Mr. Lawrence did, and at the same place. In rendering his decision, Judge Clifford decided some points in favor of both parties, laid down the principles of law applicable to the case, and referred the whole matter to Mr. Paine to report upon the annotations. Mr. Lawrence never obtained an injunction, the whole edi tion has been sold, and the parties are think ing of getting out another. The questions in volved are purely of a private nature, relating to a contract which Mr. Lawrence alleges was made with him by the Wheatons, with which Mr. Dana had nothing to do. Mr. Dana is but one of the parties to the suit, which must from the nature of things, ultimately be decided by the United States supreme court, and no issues are involved which impair his fitness for the position to which he has been nominated."—New York Times.

GENERAL BELKNAP'S CAREER

General William W. Belknap was appointed Secretary of War in 1869, soon after the death of General Rawlins. He was born in 1829 in Newburg, New York, although some accounts give Hudson, New York, and others George town, D. C., as the place of his birth. The latter mistake doubtless grew out of the fact that young Belknap studied law with H. Ca perton, Esq., at Georgetown. His father was a distinguished citizen of this State. He served in the war of 1812, was some time instructor of infantry tactics at West Point; served in the Florida war, and again in the war with Mexico, where he was brevetted Brigadier-General for gallant conduct at the battle of Buena Vista. He died in 1851. On the death of his father, Mr. Belknap sought a home with his family in the new State of Iowa, where he entered into the practice of law. At the break ing out of the rebellion he entered the army as Major of the 15th Iowa Infantry. Soon after he was detailed as Provost Marshal on General McPherson's staff, figuring conspicu ously in all the campaigns in Tennessee. He was with Gen. Sherman in the Georgia cam paign, distinguished himself in front of At lanta, and on the day General McPherson fell acted so bravely that he was promoted to be Brigadier General. Subsequently he marched with Sherman to the sea, and when the army reached Savannah was brevetted Major Gen eral. When the war was ended Gen. Belknap was offered a field officer's commission in the regular army, but declined it, and in 1866 was made collector of internal revenue for the 1st Iowa district. During his incumbency of this office he earned great credit for the faithful, honest and fearless manner in which he per formed his duty. The reforms he instituted in his district gained for him the highest com mendations of the department. It was while occupying this position that he was selected by President Grant to fill the Cabinet seat va cated by the death of the lamented Rawlins.

Gen. Belknap was graduated from Princeton college in the class of '48. He was a contem porary of Heister Clymer, of Pennsylvania, and of George M. Robeson, the present Secre tary of the Navy. In personal appearance he is a fine type of Saxon-American manhood. He is over six feet in height, weighs 200 pounds, has fair hair and whiskers and blue eyes and is considered possessed of generous mental endowments. He has been thrice married. His first wife was the sister of Mrs. Hugh T. Reid of Iowa, his second a Miss Tomlinson, of Keokuk. His present wife was Mrs. Amanda T. Bowers, of Harrodsburg, Ky., to whom he was married December 11, 1873. At the time of the wedding the fact was made prominent that "the bride was given away by her distinguished kinsman Hon. George H. Pendleton, of Ohio." On their return to Washington, Gen. Belknap rented a large house, built by Gen. Babcock, on G street, where he lived in extravagant style. Previous to the war the General was an active Demo crat, having served one term in the Iowa legislature as a representative of that party. During the rebellion he was known as a War Democrat, his first Republican vote being cast for Mr. Lincoln in 1864.

His latest and most prominent public ven ture was in the late senatorial contest in Iowa. The state legislature was importuned to elect him as the successor of Senator Wright, whose term expires in 1877. The general himself was present with a large crowd of friends, two of the larger hotels being occupied by his ad herents. Everything possible was done to secure Belknap's election. It was even inti mated that the government wished him elect ed, but all in vain. The result was in favor of Gov. Kirkwood, the secretary of war re ceiving only 12 votes.

BELKNAP'S ARREST

Following is the warrant upon which the late Secretary Belknap was arrested:

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, }
County of Washington. } ss

To the Marshal of the District of Columbia, greeting: Whereas, Albert J. THURSDAY MORNING MARCH 30 1876

PERSONAL ATTACKS

Fr[illegible] discussion of personal and impersonal journalism with respect to the question of the authorship of what appears in the public prints our attention is called away to another subject not directly germane in nature but quite similar in characterization, namely personalities in journalism. A novel doctrine has grown up which may be formally stated about as follows: In discussing the fitness or unfitness of men for public service nothing can properly be referred to except the ability and disposition of the candidate to perform the service which the position requires. His character for integrity in business transactions and general uprightness of walk and conversation is not a legitimate subject of discussion. We speak of this as a novel doctrine, not but that it has been advanced from time immemorial by scoundrels who wished to reach place without having their delinquencies publicly commented on or by reason of their not being commented on, but it is only lately that persons claiming any degree of respectability have begun to countenance the exemption of rascality from exposure under such circumstances. We begin to hear respectable and semi-intelligent people urge the impropriety of referring to the social crimes, vicious habits and private dishonest practices of public men. Such things are sometimes spoken of as "mere personalities" which should not be indulged in while discussing fitness for official position. Heretofore a man's personal character has been generally regarded as a measure of his fitness for public trusts. Grave charges against the personal character, we are now frequently told, must fall to the ground, howsoever truthful they may be, because they are "merely personal attacks." What character has man besides his personal character? Did any[illegible] ever hear of a knave in private life who was a faithful and honest man in public life? Charges of this sort, especially proven or highly probable, are the most serious that can be made against a man. For the simple matter of going through the routine of official service in a technically correct way, we have never heard it said that Tweed or Belknap or Bill King was not well qualified. The charges against all of them were "merely personal" in exactly the same sense that charges of common robbery, larceny or bigamy are. No doubt it would be a genuine comfort to all these rogues to know that they never would be arraigned before the bar of justice or of public opinion for their "personal" conduct. But this is not the way of a hard-hearted world. The number of people who accept the rascal's theory of political virtue and public criticism has not yet become sufficiently large to settle the matter as the parties immediately interested would have it settled. Despite this plea for immunity to such characters there are multitudes of old fashioned people who will criticise and pass censure on men of profligate and flagitious lives, especially when such become public characters and try to reach high public place or to continue in it. For the notion is still widely prevalent that men whose private conduct is censurable or criminal cannot be fit for public trust. In his charge against Warren Hastings, Burke has a noble and irrefragable apothegm which he states as the result of personal experience and long conviction and wishes to have recorded, "that there never was a bad man who had ability for good service." Good Dr Watts hits it when he demands to know "who can command a vital stream from an infected spring?" And Churchill in one of his trenchant satires, puts it with still sharper point when in speaking of the relation between personal character and fitness for public place he says:

In vain have sly and subtle sophists tried
Public from private morals to divide;
For credit on each other they rely,
They live together and together die.

Until rugged honesty is out of vogue we shall have judgments of this sort to trouble such as wish to have their private crimes passed by without mention while they ascend the ladder of power. It will be a sorry day for the country when a line of separation is established between private and public morals, and the way to preferment is as open and as smooth to the man of dishonorable life as to the upright and honorable. These personal attacks are just the attacks that ought to be made whenever they can be sustained by evidence and whenever the person against whom they are aimed is aspiring to public position.

ORVILLE GRANT'S TRADERSHIPS

Orville Grant's connection with the Indian traderships concerning which so much has been said through the papers turns out not to have been anything very serious after all. He was called before the Congressional committee which was charged with the investigation of the matter and gave a full and complete history of the whole [illegible]. His manner of testifying appears to have been so frank and fair that he impressed all who heard him that he was telling the plain truth. He [illegible] a man scarcely suited to [illegible] business [illegible] for that matter to any business requiring accurate information of the resources to be entered and [illegible] attention. [illegible] Being unfortunate in some enterprise in which he had embarked in New Jersey [illegible] their citizen of the Republic to apply for a license to trade with the Indians. And he did apply and his brother did request of the proper Cabinet officer that the application be granted. Orville obtained license to trade at three different posts. At each place he took in a partner. It seems he thought at the time of making his application that these Indian traderships, like the position of post trader in the army, were exclusive. He says he thought so and supposed there was a great deal of money to be made out of them. But he was mistaken in this respect. He had not informed himself as to the law of the business in which he was about to engage. Anybody else could get a license to compete with him on giving a bond prescribed by law and which he had to give. Thus he went into business with no capital except a license to trade. It is very likely he tried to keep others from going to his posts and dividing the custom with him. If he did not he is a very different person from the average of business men. And it is very likely his supposed influence at Washington was worth a great deal to him securing advantageous partnerships. But there is no evidence tending to support the charge that he used improper means to make his enterprises successful. He did not make them successful. Instead of amassing a vast fortune as has been reported he amassed nothing and comes out as he went in, a poor man. The papers least friendly to the President and his family without exception, so far as we have observed, agree that the evidence fails to show anything dishonest in his case. The New York Tribune, the ablest of all the non-partisan opponents of the President, is compelled to admit that his testimony bears the impress of truth, and that his connection with these traderships was not of the disreputable kind which it has been pictured in some of the Democratic journals.

The joint committee of the National Rifle Association and Amateur Rifle Club have issued an address to the American public, setting forth the conditions prescribed for the selection of the American Rifle Team to represent the United States in the great international long range match for the championship of the world to take place at Creedmoor, L. I., September 13 and 14, 1876, under the auspices of the Centennial Commission. The conditions are as follows:

Eight men shall constitute the team and four others, who shall be known as reserves, shall be selected for their merits as determined by three competitions at Creedmoor in the manner following:

Competition 1.—Open to all native born citizens of the United States, to take place May 31 and June 1 1876, fifty shots each day by each competitor—fifteen at 800 yards, fifteen at 900 yards and twenty at 1,000 yards.

Competition 2.—Open to the sixteen men making the highest aggregate scores in competition 1, to be shot June 6 and 7 1876, same number of shots and same distances as in competition 1, the twelve men making the highest aggregate scores in this competition and in competition 1 to be the twelve men who shall constitute the team and reserve.

Competition 3.—Open only to the team and reserves, to take place June 13 and 14 1876, same number of shots and same conditions as in competition 1; the aggregate scores in this competition and competition 2 shall determine the order of merit of these twelve competitors, the competitor having the highest aggregate score taking first place on the team, and so on, according to their respective aggregate scores, the first eight to constitute the team, the balance the reserves; rifles, sights, targets, marking, scoring and position to be according to the printed regulations of the National Rifle Association of America.

As soon as practicable after the completion of competition 2 the team and reserve shall, by a majority vote of the twelve, elect a captain, not of their number. The captain when elected, shall have the management of the team and prescribe the rules for its government and practice.

Entries for competition 1 may be made at any time up to 10 o'clock A. M. of May 31 1876. Persons desiring to enter are requested to inform the secretary of the joint committee by letter at as early a day as possible. All countries having rifle clubs or rifle associations have been invited to send one team each to compete in this match. Many countries have already signified their intention to be represented.

When they were first issued the trade dollar was regarded rather favorably as a silver coin on this coast, but since the recent discount on all coins of that metal, it has come to be the least desirable, and to add to its unpopularity it is now reported that the trade dollars made at the Carson mint are defective in weight. The San Francisco Commercial Herald says repeated trials have shown that the Carson trade dollar is in the neighborhood of three grains short. This is a deplorable condition of things and none the less so because attempts have been made to shield that institution by theoretical arguments to the effect that the fault lies in the insufficiency of the force employed in the Carson mint, which is a serious obstacle to making the pieces as nicely as they are made in the San Francisco mint. If that be all how comes it that the fault is invariably on the side of short weight and never of overweight?

Do not forget that next Monday is the day of the annual school election. It need not be repeated that this is a very important election. But it cannot be too strongly impressed upon the minds of those who feel an interest in the welfare and prosperity of our schools that the only way to make sure of the continuation of the present prosperous state of the schools is to attend the election and see to it that their management is kept in the hands of faithful and capable men. By all means keep politics out of the election. Partyism in the election of district officers was the bane of the schools [illegible] it not be revived. [illegible] the schools be kept as free from partyism as they are from sectarianism. This plan, which works efficiently in all local affairs, is especially desirable in the affairs of the school district.

That "Flesh Shower" in Kentucky seems likely to be the [illegible] as learned as that recorded of the Fish [illegible] the interpretation of the inscription on the stone found and described by [illegible] its members. It has been asserted by Prof. Smith that the supposed flesh [illegible] spawn [illegible]

A verdict [illegible] New York [illegible] against Henry Astor [illegible] Astor [illegible] was affected and the use of her legs was lost.

A [illegible] at Harry Hill's saloon [illegible] street, New York, a [illegible] two females named Nelly Saunders and Rose Harland, were induced by the offer of a prize of $200 to dress up in male attire and engage in a boxing contest. The disgraceful affair came off in the presence of a large number of persons who were indecent enough to applaud both.

Judge Taft, the new secretary of war, is an old line Republican. He supported Fremont for President in 1856. It looks as if the Democratic member of the cabinet would all have to retire.

The new schooner Laura May built on Coos Bay is rated A 1 for [illegible] years which is said to be the highest rate ever given to a centerboard schooner on the Pacific Coast.

CITY.

LECTURE BY JUDGE DEADY —The announcement that Judge Deady was to deliver a lecture last evening at the rooms of the Y M C A for the benefit of that association drew a large and cultivated audience The fact that so eminent a jurist was to lecture and the additional one that he had chosen the subject 'Trial by Jury,' had the effect to draw a large number of the practicing attorneys of the city Most of the members of the Portland bar were present to listen to the lecture On no previous occasion, during the course of lectures delivered at the association rooms has a larger or more appreciative audience been in attendance. The commodious room was crowded. In no respect did the lecturer fall short of the highest expectation of his friends Without detracting from the merit of the previous efforts of Judge Deady in the lecture field, it must be said that his effort last night was fully equal, if not superior, to any preceding one He gave a complete and comprehensive history of the origin of the legal institution known as 'Trial by Jury' from its earliest inception down to the present time offering many valuable and practical suggestions in connection with the subject. To further inform the reader anything like a synopsis of the lecture would be out of the question at this late hour but suffice it to say that it was replete with original thought critical analysis, and displaying a thorough acquaintance with the subject in all its aspects. While the subject was necessarily one entirely removed from any approach to the sensational and might be popularly termed dull and dry to the average intellect, yet the whole lecture was invested with such interest and the thoughts so clothed in language fitting and eloquent and arranged with clearness and felicity of diction, that it was listened to with unabated interest from opening to conclusion Prof. McGilvery and family, and Mr Hatch of Oregon City, furnished some choice vocal music prior to and at the conclusion of the lecture. At the close of his lecture a unanimous vote of thanks was tendered Judge Deady for his very able and instructive effort

GROSS MISREPRESENTATIONS.—The following tissue of falsehoods appears in the Walla Walla Union of the 25th instant 'Several of our citizens who have recently visited Portland, report that in the 'Metropolis of the Northwest' there are blocks of unoccupied brick business houses, up whose sides the moss is rapidly extending, that the people all look cheap and disagreeable, like chickens in a rain storm That with the exception of a few private dwellings, there is no building in progress or contemplation, that the whole town looks like a child with its parent's clothes on that it has too much room for its inhabitants' Either the writer of the above paragraph must have been grossly imposed upon, or else was actuated by malicious motives. It would be a difficult matter to include a greater number of misrepresentations in so small a limit. In the first place, there are no unoccupied blocks of brick buildings in Portland. True, there are a few small brick buildings which at present are tenantless but there are only a few such tenements. Secondly, it is false that the 'moss is rapidly extending on the sides of these buildings. There are few cities where property owners exercise more taste and care in keeping buildings neat and in good repair. As to the 'chickens-in-a-rain-storm' part of the paragraph, we will simply say that the citizens of Portland, generally, are as cheerful and pleasant as are to be found anywhere in the Union The statement that only a few private dwelling houses are in progress of erection, or held in contemplation, is false In every particular Already the ground is being broken for two large three-story brick buildings, and a number of other extensive improvements are held in contemplation this season, besides a great number of residences, and work will soon be commenced We are at a loss to know why the Union man should circulate such false and injurious statements about the growth and material prosperity of our city

THE REWARD CASE DECIDED.—Before Judge Woodward and the county commissioners the case of Sheriff Dale of Yamhill county and Henry Carney, in relation to the reward offered for the recapture of Shepardson and his delivery to the authorities here, came up for examination yesterday It has been previously announced in these columns that a controversy existed between Sheriff Dale and Mr. Carney with regard to the reward Carney was employed by Deputy Sheriff Gaunt to assist him in recapturing Shepardson Burke and Wilson for a certain stipulated sum—$5 At the time Carney was not aware that a large reward had been offered for the recapture of these men, and Gaunt did not inform him of the fact. After the arrest was made, Carney refused to accept the $5 and presented a claim to the county judge for one half the promised reward—$500 Yesterday the case was thoroughly investigated and the rights of the parties to their respective claims determined. Several witnesses were examined, and the parties were duly represented by attorneys who conducted the case After an examination of the case, the court decided as follows that Sheriff Dale was entitled to $500 of the reward, Deputy Sheriff Gaunt $300 and Carney the remaining $200 By the decision of the court, it is not to be inferred that there was any controversy whatever between Sheriff Dale and his deputy as to their claims These gentlemen presented a joint petition to the court, claiming the full amount of the reward $1000. There are no differences between Dale and Gaunt, and the amount awarded by the court will be satisfactorily divided between them

MR. MOSES SELLER'S NATURALIZATION PAPERS —In the proceedings had in the United States district court, Tuesday, it appears that 'Mr. Moses Seller, a native of Bavaria, was admitted to citizenship.' As it is well known that Mr Seller has not only exercised the highest prerogative of the American citizen—the right of suffrage—for many years during his residence in Portland, but has on a number of occasions officiated as judge of elections the record of the court may create a wrong impression It may be supposed that during the many years he has lived here he has been an alien, and that these are his first naturalization papers. Nothing can be further from the facts, and, that no injustice may be done a very worthy and highly esteemed fellow townsman, we make the following explanation Mr Seller was admitted to citizenship in 1858 That being prior to the admission of Oregon into the Union as a State, there was no seal of the court attached to the papers. The document was executed in due form and witnessed by Ex Attorney General Williams, then a resident of this State, and signed by Jas W Davis the clerk of the U S district court Mr Seller now contemplates making an extensive tour in Europe before long, and as there was no official seal affixed to his papers, and no record made of his being admitted, he was advised by the court to take out new papers so that there could be no question raised. Application was made and new papers issued From the date of the issuance of his first naturalization papers Mr Seller has been entitled to all the privileges of citizenship, and if blame is to be attached to any one, it cannot be attached to him

EAST PORTLAND FIRE —The total loss sustained by the fire of Wednesday morning, will probably aggregate $10 000 Mr P[illegible] valued his building saloon fixtures etc at about $7 000 His building and stock were insured for $3 500 in the State Investment and Insurance Company Mr C M Carter the owner of the City Hotel [illegible] insured in the same company for $1 000 The [illegible] the building is badly scorched a part [illegible] and all the doors and windows [illegible] Five or six hundred dollars will repair all damages done to the [illegible] Mr Carter will lose [illegible] Mrs Reinhardt the proprietress [illegible] a loss of $250 from water and [illegible] The loss falls with particular [illegible] on this lady as she is [illegible] and her household effects were not insured

GREEN FRUIT AT THE CENTENNIAL

PORTLAND, March 27, 1876

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Will you please publish the following circular on the subject of Pomology relative to arrangements made for receiving green fruit at the coming Centennial Exhibition?

I intend leaving for Philadelphia on the next steamer and am anxious Oregon should be properly represented in her green fruits in their season as well as her other material resources of wealth

This can be creditably done if our horticulturists and fruit growers will spend a little time to organize and perfect a work that will not only enhance their own private interest but be a lasting and lasting benefit to the State Fruit growers of Oregon will you attend to it

Papers throughout the State please copy

A J DUFUR
Commissioner for Oregon

POMOLOGY

It is the purpose of the Centennial Commission of the International Exhibition and an especial object of interest to the Bureau of Agriculture which has been charged with the reception of fruits for exhibition, to afford every inducement and facility for a full and complete display of the fruits of our varied climates and also those of more northern and tropical regions

It being questionable as to the practicability of exhibiting many perishable fruits, the products of the tropics models in wax and plaster will be acceptable

Such a display of pomological products as herein designated will it is expected cover the entire period during which the Exhibition will be open though at all times varying in importance and extent For instance berries and other small fruits will be included in this department, and of these there will be certain classes as strawberries from the South ready for exhibition on the opening day and the variety and quantity will be presented in an increasing scale as the season advances

It will be perceived readily that the most important display will be made during the months of September and October

The classification and arrangement of location of fruits sent for exhibition will be according to their species and variety, all of similar character being assembled together that a more satisfactory conclusion may be reached as to the respective merits of like products from different soils and States Thus all grapes, from whatsoever source will be placed in one position the same with apples pears, and the entire list of cultivated and wild fruits, and nuts

Exhibitors may be assured that the proper arrangements will be made for the united interests of themselves and pomological science.

It is hoped that the Pomological Societies of the several States and individual cultivators generally will co operate in an effort to place before the world creditable evidence of the resources and capacity of our country in respect to fruit culture and products

The Exhibition will open in Philadelphia on the 10th day of May 1876, and close the 10th day of November following

BRITISH COLUMBIA

Nanaimo light house is almost completed Captain Cooper Department of Marine and Fisheries has inspected it

Complaint is made that the proper authorities failed to place some distinguishing mark over Beacon Rock on which the steamer Olympia ran on Sunday last

British Columbia will be largely represented in only one of the ten classes under which all objects for the world's show at Philadelphia are grouped that namely of raw materials mineral vegetable animal

The Colonist says the smallpox appears to be entirely stamped out in Victoria There are now no cases To prevent groundless alarm the yellow flag should not be kept up a moment longer than is necessary

Private advices from Ottawa received by Thursday's mail, state that a proposition has been made by a company to build the railway from Esquimalt to Nanaimo provided the Dominion government will give a liberal subsidy in money and coal lands

The plowing match of Victoria district came off last Saturday at Swan lake The spot selected was a meadow on Smith's farm The ground was very favorable for the match Messrs John Black Geo Lindsay and Tempie were the judges The first prize was won by W H Snyder of Lake second by W Hutchinson of North Saanich third, John Thomas of South Saanich

The blowing up of Beaver Rock which was announced to take place last Saturday has been unavoidably postponed as the dynamite to be used was yesterday discovered to be in a frozen condition and useless until thawed To render the explosion certain it has been thought prudent by the contractor Thomas Spence to connect the dynamite hammers with the battery by means of two distinct wires so that in the event of the electric shock failing to take effect by one wire it will perform its duty without doubt by the other

Extra Liability to Malarial Infection. Persons whose blood is thin, digestion weak and liver sluggish are extra liable to the attacks of malarial disease The most trifling exposure may, under such conditions infect a system which if healthy would resist the miasmatic taint The only way to secure immunity from malaria in localities where it is prevalent is to tone and regulate the system by improving weakened digestion enriching the blood and giving a wholesome impetus to biliary secretion These results are accomplished by nothing so effectively as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters which long experience has proved to be the most reliable safeguard against fever and ague and kindred disorders, as well as the best remedy for them The Bitters are, moreover an excellent invigorant of the organs of urination and an active depurent eliminating from the blood those acrid impurities which originate rheumatic ailments

JUST FROM BOSTON

THE FIRST RELIABLE INTELLIGENCE OF THE FALL OF THE OLD ELM TREE

The Cincinnati Enquirer says Yesterday a travel stained tramp with a business look in his blood shot eyes presented himself at the bar of a Second street saloon and addressing the proprietor said

Cocktail Seignor

The beverage was prepared and fragrant with nutmeg placed before the customer He quaffed it off smacked his lips and shoving the glass toward the barkeeper remarked

Fine—excellent best since I left Boston Gimme another

Another was mixed drank and praised at some length

Yes said the bar man as he rinsed the glass beneath the counter we try to sell a good cobbler cocktail in Aurora And what makes it pleasant he continued noticing that the customer was making no movement toward his pocket book what makes it pleasant is that we charge only fifteen cents for such as you have sampled

Only fifteen cents thirty cents for the two exclaimed the tramp as he backed up to the stove and moved the tail of his ulster to one side "Why that's a paltry sum to what I calculated to pay you

Only thirty cents, please, said the bar keeper as he waited at the till

Too little too little persisted the tramp When a man sells me goods of a superior quality, even so shall he be rewarded Now I've just arrived from Boston—historic Boston I call it

"Oh, yes said the barkeeper, nodding toward the tramp, and then toward the till, Boston is a nice town but she can't compete with Aurora—can't sell cocktails for 15 cents"

Right Seignior but don't interrupt me I'm from Boston six days out—and probably bring you the first reliable intelligence of the fall of our famous elm tree which bowed before the storm king on the 15th inst. I was there saw the prostrate monarch, wept like a child at its mother's grave, and came away"

"Thirty cents for the drinks," observed the barkeeper

"This tree," continued the tramp with a touch of reverence in his tone, "saw the rise and progress of our Republic, It was aged—mighty bald headed—when the nation was born when the Mayflower landed with our forefathers her bow line was made fast to its trunk; beneath its spreading branches Gen Washington delivered his farewell address to the army; many a time and oft has Aaron Burr sat in its grateful shade and made love to Joan of Arc These things gave it renown Why, my dear sir, had it been the indentical tree from which Eve plucked the forbidden fruit"—

"There, there,' put in the barkeeper "gimme a quarter, and call it square.

"Not at all, Seignior you shall be paid—more than paid I like your goods, I like your appearance and when I take a fancy to a man he always finds a friend in me I have that about me which is of more value than rubies or fine gold As a citizen of Boston and to show my appreciation of your cocktails, allow me to place in your possession a priceless relic, a piece of our historic tree Thanks by mail, J Snodgrass, 700 Dey street Boston Adieu"

Then laying on the counter an apple tree twig the size of a lead pencil, he was off like one who had been sent for The barkeeper made a dash to intercept his flight to the street but the effort was a lamentable failure

A COOL TRAMP

The Dresden (Tenn) Democrat says Tramps are filing slowly by, and going to the cities where they can ply their avocation to more advantage than they can in country villages now that the luscious muscadines grapes and persimmons have vanished from their gaze and grasp They come with a pitiful story of lost trunks and valises and say they have worked two and three weeks for this man and that man and never got a red for it Some deserve pity and assistance, but the wretch we heard of the other day deserves the county work house He, no doubt had been on the turf a long time from his flow of language and the amount of cheek he possessed He stopped at a farm house a few miles from Dresden and called for dinner it being about that time of day The good housewife of course could not refuse and dinner being over she sat before him a plate of cold chicken, corn bread and, in fact, the remains of a very good meal remarking that the other members of the family had dined and gone off on some business

Well said the tramp I'm sorry I did not get in at the first table No doubt this was a fine fowl, but it looks as though it had been unfortunate and had been struck by lightning or one of Prof Tyce's cyclones

[illegible] of a very [illegible] Within the past three years this community has been [illegible] and sometimes startled by the numerous failures of men who before had stood high in the business world and ranked among the wealthy of the land and who in prosperous times [illegible] outsiders the appearance of entire soundness in a business sense, while there was in their uses really a want of that solidity which [illegible] of these unsound men have dropped out in the time referred to Those who were able to weather the storm have the more room and less competitors and are thereby benefited to the extent of the patronage of those who were the customers of those who have dropped out The monetary situation is also much better than it was in the spring of last year or the year before Then money was actually scarce and rates of interest fully up to the legal limit and still the banks were unable to accommodate applicants outside of their regular customers Now there is ample available funds in the market for all the purposes of legitimate trade and first class security or good commercial paper is taken up very readily at rates which would have been regarded as low a few years ago Under these circumstances with a rapid increase in the production and commerce of our State, there is no valid reason to grumble at the situation

The Wheat Surplus.

Some parties who claim to be posted in regard to the wheat production and surplus of Oregon pronounce our estimate of the crop of 1875 as entirely too high and seem to think that the remainder after the vessels now at hand have cleared 0000 tons surplus would be nearer the correct figure than what we stated which was double that quantity From good authority we learn that there are at Albany about 0000 bushels at [illegible] and at other points more or less In the warehouses in all perhaps 10000 tons It is impossible even to approximate the amount yet in the hands of the farmers who have neither sold nor stored in the warehouses but knowing that there is a very large quantity so held in Marion Yamhill and Polk counties, and considering the fact that the rains began early in the season and the roads have been so bad that little hauling could be done since October and further that a prospect of better prices had caused many to hold their wheat, who would otherwise have parted with it at current rates we cannot see that the estimate is at all likely to be found above the correct figure

Domestic Produce

To day has been a very quiet one in this department of trade and nothing has been developed to make any change in quotations necessary Wheat and flour are still in fair receipt and passes into the vessels at hand quite rapidly As the three or four ships now loading are all that may be here for a fortnight or so, bound for foreign ports except the small bark Chloe, now en route from Victoria, we may expect a much diminished volume of exports in April True, five vessels from foreign ports are about due but past experience has taught shippers that it is not safe, especially at this season of the year, to count on vessels coming to hand from long voyages within a few weeks of any given time

Beside the firm feeling noted in the market for breadstuffs, there is the same disposition in the prices of provisions and some articles in this line are in active demand among which bacon and lard of good quality are quick sale at our quotations Choice butter and fresh eggs for the local trade are in good demand and prices rather favor sellers Dried fruits for shipment abroad command full rates Poultry and game are plentiful and prices tend downward Wool, hides and peltry are in light receipt and quotations almost nominal

PLUMMER FRUIT DRYER.

AS A PROOF OF WHAT I HAVE HERETOFORE stated to the people of Oregon, I give below a letter from the Plummer Fruit Drying Co of East Portland After the close of business of 1875 fully endorsing it after using it one entire season and as a proof to substantiate what they say they now contemplate putting up another Dryer of the same capacity of the one they now have, which will increase their capacity to five hundred bushels of apples per day Having now located here in Portland for the purpose of supplying the demand for Fruit Dryers in Oregon and Washington Territory I can supply these dryers at a cost of from $1 000 to $ 000 according to capacity Warranted to dry from [illegible] to 20 bushels of apples per hour at a small cost for labor and fuel These machines being so cheap and simple in construction they cannot fail to supercede all other known machines I would also say to the fruit growers that I have invented a Machine (and am now waiting for a patent) that will cut and spread the fruit on the trays with a very small amount of labor I also have invented a Peach Parer that is on an entirely new principle paring soft as well as hard does its work well with great speed and slices and pits the fruit ready for the Dryer in the best possible manner, and at a great saving in quantity of fruit

Having become somewhat acquainted with the wants of the people I find that a cheap DRYER is what is wanted and one that will do good work and a large amount of it I have so modified my Dryer as to meet that demand, and can now guarantee my CHEAP DRYER to do as good work as any and as large an amount of it, and the price is within the reach of all

FRUIT DRYER TESTIMONIALS.

EAST PORTLAND, Jan 4th 1876

MR W. S PLUMMER—Dear Sir As this is a time when all are much interested in Fruit Drying, we think that in justice to you and for the information of the public it is but right and proper that we should give all the information that we can Now after having operated your Dryer during this season we feel warranted in saying that for the amount of money invested we still believe as we did from the start that your Dryer is the best Dryer yet introduced into this country The capacity of the Dryer we find to be about 8 (eight) bushels per hour The Dried fruit we claim to be as good as any though perhaps not as much bleached as the Alden Fruit and we are satisfied that we can produce Dried Fruit at less expense than the "Alden" The stockholders of our Company manifested their confidence in the Plummer Dryer at our meeting last Saturday by a unanimous vote to increase the capital stock $12,000 (twelve thousand dollars) for the purpose of adding one more Dryer to the present one and making other improvements for next season We will further say that we believe that by an improvement made by the patentee in the Heater and I am that there will be an increase of capacity and a saving of Fuel
H HANSON President
J P NEWELL Secretary and Superintendent

EAST PORTLAND, Dec 13 1875

MR PLUMMER—Dear Sir I have been watching both the Alden and your Fruit Dryer the past season so as to determine which was the best Machine for drying Prunes I visited the Alden Dryer at Oregon City and examined the Prunes dried on that Machine and I have also examined several lots dried on your Machine at East Portland, and my opinion is that your Dryer is far the best Machine for drying Prunes My reasons are these Your Machine dries them without bursting or cracking while I noticed that a great deal of the fruit dried on the Alden Machine was bursted open and after a Prune is bursted in drying it is worthless for market as a Prune, therefore I can recommend your Machine for drying Prunes or any thing else Yours truly
